DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of claims 128-137 in the reply filed on August 11, 2006 is acknowledged.

Claims 104-127 and 138-144 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on August 11, 2006.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 128, 129, 132 and 133 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Vierra et al (5,807,243). Vierra shows a device comprising at least one tissue contact member 100 and a connecting member 3 extending for the tissue contact member and adapted to be hand held or fixed to a relatively immovable object. The contact member comprises a base member having a central opening (see Figure 7). The base member has a hollow interior and the connecting member fluidly connects with the hollow interior. Regarding the recitation that the interior is adapted to develop a negative pressure therein and the connecting member is adapted to be connected to a source of negative pressure, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. . In re Hutchison, 69 USPQ 138.

Claims 128, 129, 132-134 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Borst et al (5,836,311). Borst shows a device comprising at least one tissue contact member 81 and a connecting member 80 extending for the tissue contact member and adapted to be hand held or fixed to a relatively immovable object. The contact member comprises a base member having a central opening (see Figure 13). The base member has a hollow interior and the connecting member fluidly connects with the hollow interior. As to claim 134, not the holes 82 through a bottom surface.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 130 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vierra et al (5,807,243). Vierra discloses the claimed invention except for the base member being oval shaped. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to form the base member of Vierra with an oval shape, since applicant has not disclosed that such solve any stated problem or is anything more than one of numerous shapes or configurations a person ordinary skill in the art would find obvious for the purpose of providing access to the vessel. In re Dailey and Eilers, 149 USPQ 47 (1966).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 131 and 135-137 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
